The Doberman Pinscher (also commonly known as either 'Dobermann' or simply 'Doberman') is a medium-large breed of dog that was originally developed in Germany. The breed was initially developed to assist with tax collection in the late 1800s but is now a domesticated family pet. The Doberman Pinscher has a long muzzle which allows it to have an extremely strong bite. The breed stands on the toes of its feet rather than the foot pads. This gives the Doberman Pinscher a light footed and graceful gait. Traditionally, the breed has cropped and posted ears and a docked tail - however in some countries it is considered illegal animal abuse to inflict these. A pure breed will always have distinct markings on its chest, paws, legs, muzzle, underneath its tail and above its eyes. As a whole the breed is known to be intelligent, physically strong, occasionally stubborn, alert and incredibly loyal. The Doberman Pinscher makes an excellent guard dog due to their incredible loyalty to their family unit. Like with all breeds, the personality of a Doberman Pinscher varies from dog to dog - however a properly trained Doberman will tend to always be a loving and devoted companion. With proper training a Doberman Pinscher can also be a great pet to have around small children. Before purchasing any pet it is important to understand that as a pet owner you are responsible for the care and wellbeing of your pet. It is important to try and learn as much as you can about the animal you are considering to keep as a pet to make sure that your lifestyle, household and financial status are suited to provide your pet with the best possible care. DOBERMAN AND DOBERMAN PINSCHER is your definitive Doberman Guide! Everything is covered: from Doberman Puppies, Doberman Breeders, Doberman Variations, Doberman Training, Doberman Health & Nutrition, and all the proven INSIDER tips for success with Your Doberman throughout its life! The Doberman Pinscher is a highly intelligent working breed with a rich history who possesses arguably unmatched loyalty to their owners. As a result, the Doberman's popularity has increased in recent decades and the breed has captured a passionate following of dedicated owners worldwide. Physically, these dogs are capable of some impressive feats and have even contributed to the success of the allies during both the World Wars. The Doberman Pinscher is certainly a very capable dog who has made a great addition to families all around the world for many generations. The Doberman Pinscher was created in the 1890s through selective breeding by Karl Friedrich Louis Dobermann, who was a tax collector, night watchman, and the local dog catcher in Apolda, Germany. Imperial Germany at the time was a rough place and as a tax collector, Louis was certainly a target while making his rounds collecting tax money from the citizens. His other job at the time wasn't much easier, a night watchman was tasked with walking through the town at night, on the watch for thugs who were up to no good. As the local dog catcher, however, Louis had access to a large number of different dog breeds. Louis began selective breeding to produce an ideal personal protection dog that could accompany him on his rounds through town collecting taxes and performing his duties as a local night watchman. He desired to create a dog with the right combination of intelligence, speed, strength, stamina, ferocity, and unshakable loyalty. After Louis Dobermann's death in 1894, the breed that he pioneered was named the "Doberman Pinscher" in his honor. Later, another citizen of Apolda, Germany named Otto Göller became critical in further developing and refining the breed. In the 1970s the breed's popularity increased again and Doberman's found themselves front and center in many facets of popular culture. Doberman's were becoming featured in popular television shows and movies at the time. This led to an increase in Doberman ownership, especially in the United States, and they became among the top 5 most popular dog breeds during this time. Many celebrities have owned Dobermans over the years, including John F. Kennedy, Mariah Carey, William Shatner, Rita Hayworth, and Victoria Pendleton. This has also helped the breed climb the popularity ranks. An illustrated guide to the characteristics, training, feeding, grooming and care of Doberman Pinschers.
